THE NORWAY ADVERTISER

(OXFORD COUNTY, ME.)

NUMBER 41. OCTOBER 13, 1911, NORWAY, MAINE. VOLUME XLII.

Norway Municipal Court.

Wm. F. Jones, Judge.
L. L. Mason of Portland was arrested Tuesday by Deputy Frank P. Hoyt for running his automobile on the Bear Pond road in Waterford, which had been closed to automobile travel. He was brought into court and fined $10. He paid and was discharged.

Lion Farrar of Sumner was before the court Monday charged with intoxication on the premises of John Redding, Oct. 6. He pleaded guilty and was fined $5 and costs, amounting to $17.05, which were paid.

An Excavation.
One day first of the week while Hiram Wiles was busy engaged in digging the trench to lay the pipe for the sewer, which he is putting in for John Sampson from his house to the brook, he made a find which knowing the history makes it all the more interesting.

He was digging down the driveway between the Old Kears and the Opera House when he noticed something shining, picking it up found it to be a bundle of forks, then looking around saw another bundle, and the third bundle had been taken up in the shovel and scattered. When gathered together there were one dozen and a half A No. 1 Rogers forks all in good condition, only slightly soiled.

The probable history of these forks is this: Seventeen years ago last May occurred the big fire which destroyed those buildings and did so much damage. V. W. Hills was located in the Opera House and was in the jewelry business as now. At the time of the fire a store of his goods were carried out of the store to the opposite sidewalk and these were undoubtedly dropped and shoveled up in the debris and was put in the driveway among rubbish for filling.

V. W. Hills saw Mr. Wiles after finding them and took a good claim to the silverware, and told Mr. Wiles to bring them to the store. Monday evening he brought them in and Hills told him to call around the next day and get him, that he would polish them up a little.

Wednesday forenoon another half dozen forks were found and now Mr. Wiles is the possessor of a full two dozen silver forks, Rogers A No. 1, that have been tested.

Meeting was called to order by President V. E. Dunn at 1:30 p. m. Records of previous meeting were read by secretary, C. S. Hamlin. On account of the rainy season during the month of September there was no meeting for that month.

Dairy Tester H. M. Look gave his report for the month of August as follows:—The total number of pounds of milk produced, 3,980.25; pounds of fat produced, 173.8; cost of feed on day of test for the total association, $25.26; number of cows in test, 270; number producing milk, 238; number dry, 38.

Highest producing cow in fat on day of test, S. H. and W. W. Abbott, cow No. 6, producing 1.69 pounds; L. E. McIntire and Son, 2.1 best, 1.52 pounds; E. K. Kilgore, 3d best, 1.51 pounds.

Average cost of pound of fat, 146; average cost of pound of milk, 102; average test, 4.4; highest producing cow in milk, L. E. McIntire's, producing in one day, 44.6; highest producing herd belonged to M. M. Hamlin, producing 25.6 pounds per cow per day.

Records of Fryeburg, a breeder of pure bred Jerseys, was called upon and in part he said that he sincerely believed that every dairyman should keep a daily record of his herd and their production so as to learn what each and every cow was doing.

Secretary C. S. Hamlin said that he had never kept a dairy record of his cows but after listening to brother Pirog's talk had made up his mind that he should keep a dairy record of his cows' production.

President V. E. Dunn said that when a man kept a schedule in his stable it proved that he was taking interest in his work, and in all lines of business a man's interest must be centered there in order to succeed.

H. C. Black, Dairy Inspector, gave a talk on dairying.
Brother M. M. Hamlin said that he was pleased to be with the members of the association, said that when he was not present his mind was upon the meeting the same as though he had been there, said that the problem of the farmer is to meet here among all the farmers and to be very versatile so as to be able to meet all the problems that arise.

Brother Hamlin, who was the owner of the highest producing herd in August, was called upon to tell all about his methods. In reply he said that he wished that he could tell them but said that he was watching out about it. Said that they were glad to see official Tester Look as their yield was greater the day of Mr. Look's presence.

Mr. Farrington was given a chance to talk again in relation to his Jersey herd, giving such good facts and figures and said that he laid great stress on feeding the cows dry, large they dry period so as to get good, large calves, feed the calves well during their younger days, hence the good record.

The next meeting will be held at the Norway Grange hall the second Wednesday in November. The president has kindly asked brothers Fred G. Dunn and Benjamin Tucker to report on herd records.

A Measure of Merit

Norway Citizens Should Weigh Well This Evidence.

Proof of merit lies in the evidence. Convincing evidence in Norway. Is not the testimony of strangers. But the endorsement of Norway people.

That's the kind of proof given here—The statement of a Norway citizen.

O. I. Pitts, Blacksmith, Main street, Norway, Me., says: "I was attacked with kidney trouble several years ago, caused by a cold settling in my kidneys. I suffered from pain across my back and sides and I also had difficulty with the kidney secretions. Hearing Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended, I procured a box at Stone's Drug Store and began using them. They cured me, and for that reason I do not hesitate to recommend them."

The above statement was given July 24, 1908, and on July 11, 1911, Mr. Pitts said: "Since Doan's Kidney Pills cured me three years ago I have had little or no trouble from my kidneys. A recommendation of this remedy whenever I have the opportunity."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cts. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York sole agents for the United States.

Autumn Leaves.

On autumn leaves with varied colors say! Like crimson banners waving 'gainst the sky, Or golden pennants streaming far and wide, Seem all the trees in autumn's bright array. Would that this current might longer stay! These autumn leaves, too soon, the leaves will be gone.

Along the roadside strewn, for passers by With hurried steps to crush, and then decay. The red and yellow leaves are falling fast. It is a merry world they whirl about. Till swept into some sheltered nook at last, And there they lie, as if they were dead. There soon to fade and die, all beauty past. Bright tinted leaves that once the autumn crown'd.

EVA BREDE ODELL.

Good-bye.

We say it for an hour or for years; We say it smiling, say it choked with tears; We say it coldly, say it with a kiss; And yet we have no other word than this— "Good-bye."

We have no dearer word for our heart's friend, For him who journeys to the world's far end, And leaves our soul with grief, thus we say, As unto him who steps but o'er the way— "Good-bye."

Alike to those we love and those we hate, We say no more at parting. At life's gate, To him who passes out beyond earth's sight, We cry as to the wanderer— "Good-bye."

Revival of Gold Beads.

Gold beads are in fashion. Old strings that have not been worn should be brought out, and if tarnished they can be brightened by hot soapsuds or a good silver polish.

The newer beads are larger than the old ones, some of them of a small marble. They are not in good taste.

A novelty is the string of alternate plain and chased beads. Sometimes the entire string is of incrustated gold ones, but they are hard to keep clean.

A collar effect made of row of small beads is becoming to the girl with a slender throat. One of the new designs has nine rows, each bead not larger than an ordinary pinhead.

Gold beads are not especially becoming next to the skin, so they should be used to brighten a dark gown rather than for a décolleté frock.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh of the Bladder. This is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by rebuilding the system, and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer one hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

The Change in the County Fair.

The autumnal "cattle shows" that have become such a feature of our American life, get their start early in the season, and are the result of the desire of ambitious farmers to get recognition for good work.

A man who was conscious that he was producing a high type of domestic animal, or of fruit or vegetables, naturally wanted to get some official certification for his achievement. Furthermore the competitive spirit urged him to try conclusions with his neighbors.

The award of agricultural fair premiums therefore became a means by which the scientific farmer could make known the excellence of his methods, and secure a recognition fitted to the value of his product. It also became a means of stimulating the ambitious neighbors, by the comparison between their lean and scrawny animals and the fat aristocrats of the more successful neighbor's breeding.

The county fair was thus the original and primitive attempt of the farm community to elevate its industrial methods. Its educational phrases have today been largely succeeded by the more systematic and thorough training of the agricultural college and high school.

Today the agricultural fair has become largely a rural festival holiday. The farmer boys instead of hanging around the cattle sheds to see who is producing the best milkers, are more likely to be found at the strength testers, throwing little rings, or over canes, or competing to see which shall get the company of the pretty girls of the neighborhood on the grand stand for the races.

All this does not necessarily mean degeneracy. All work and no play used to make Jack Courtassels a dull boy. Even if the agricultural fair has lost something of its primary mission as an educative force, the gospel of technical training for the farm boy is preached at every farm road, and new schools for his benefit are opening daily. Give the farmer's boy his hour of jound and care-free merriment!—Manchester Mirror.

"The Maine."

The coffin dam about the wreck has been pumped out and the mud cleared away to a greater extent than ever before. The clearing away of the wreckage reveals the double bottom of the ship with part of the keel standing in a perpendicular position, some 28 feet higher than the natural position. The unofficial conclusion is the Maine was destroyed by an external explosion.

The New York Sun correspondent saw the bottom of the vessel it as stands supported in a perpendicular position by stanchions. The lowest platform, deck is in the position described; it is in an upheaved mass above the submerged bow.

The position of this part of the bottom indicates that what is now the highest point of the wreck, and structurally occupied a position at about frame 18. This suggests that there was an explosion of a mine under that part of the ship, say about midway between the stem and the midship section.

The explosion broke the ship into two parts, throwing one section, including the conning tower, toward the stern, the conning tower falling on the superstructure on the starboard side. From this position, in falling away the wreckage, it has been allowed to settle to the main deck slightly forward of the after turret, which is on the port side. Thus the tower is on the opposite side to that on which the explosion took place.

Other portions of the superstructure were thrown forward, falling upon the forward deck.

It is a confirmed belief that such a tearing of the ship's bottom could not have been produced by an interior explosion. It is further said that no regulation military mine could have wrought such terrific havoc. It must have been a huge mine, as Capt. Sigbee and others suggested at times, perhaps a sugar mill boiler or a large cask loaded with explosives.

MILK.

Milk is one of the most nutritious and wholesome of foods. Milk is an excellent single food for infants, and for some invalids. It contains all the different food nutrients required by the body in the right proportion, and in an easily digestible form. It is especially valuable for use in connection with other food materials. Milk may be used to modify a strong flavor, or to improve and bring out flavors which are less pronounced. The use of milk in a diet increases the nutrients furnished, and aids in digestion.

Milk is economical, because it can be used in such a variety of ways and with so many different foods, which makes the result, and because it contains no refuse. It is generally believed that milk which has been boiled is less easily digested than raw milk. The flavor is also somewhat changed by boiling. Milk used as a drink is usually prepared uncooked, if cleanliness and purity are assured. When whole skim milk are compared, the skim milk is found to be deficient in fat, and has less fuel value.

Owing to the fact that milk is so easily contaminated as to flavor, and is such a ready carrier of impurities and diseases, it is most essential that every precaution be taken to have milk clean and wholesome. All pails, strainers, etc., which come in contact with the milk, should be kept scrupulously clean; not only washed clean, but clean, boiling water. The milk should be kept in a cool, well-ventilated place, with no strong-flavors foods near it, as it absorbs flavors readily. It should be very carefully protected from flies.—Maine Farmer.

Catarrh Sufferers

If You Don't Know About Hyomei Try It at Frank Kimball's Risk.

Nearly every reader of the ADVERTISER has read about Hyomei, but many of them continue to suffer from catarrh just because they do not exactly understand just what Hyomei is.

To these sufferers Frank Kimball, Proprietor of Noyes Drug Store, says you don't have to know anything about Hyomei except that you breathe it—and that it does not contain cocaine, or opium, or any harmful drug.

You can find out all about Hyomei without taking any chances whatever. Just get an outfit today, read the simple instructions, give it a fair trial, and then if you are not willing to say that it is the best remedy for catarrh you have ever used, Frank Kimball will gladly return your money.

A complete Hyomei outfit costs but $1.00. Extra bottles, 50 cents. 41-43

On account of the heavy rain of Wed-

The weather Thursday was fair but cold and windy. There was a very large crowd in attendance and it was also a very orderly one and all seemed to enjoy their amusement.

The early killing frost spoiled many a garden exhibit, but despite this, the fair
was well filled with fruit and vegetables,
a surprisingly fine show.

One of the special features was the interest taken by the various granges.
Four granges have large and beautiful exhibits—the Mount Etna of West Baldwin, the Fryeburg, the Pequawket of North Conway and the Eagle of North
Chatham.

The arrangement of the Grange exhibits in both halls was especially good and called forth many admiring comments.
These Grange exhibits add a great deal to the attractiveness of the fair, and the association does well to give these presents to encourage the continuance of these exhibits.

There is a larger cattle exhibit than
for many years and the show of thoroughbred stock was a surprise to many who had no idea of the amount of registered stock owned in the jurisdiction of the society.

The show of oxen was the finest for years. Four towns were entered,
Chatham, Denmark, Hiram and Brownfield.

Draft horses were shown by J. W.
Hall of Lovell; C. V. Hattford, of Hiram; N. F. Fox of Lovell; Alvin Head of Chatham.

Packing row was unusually well filled
this year, and the various attractions furnished sport for the crowd which always loves a good "Midway."

Chandler's band headed the parade of prize winning stock that extended over the third of the way around the track.
This was run off at 1:30 and the races
that followed were finished in good season.

Sweaters for Our Soldiers.

The adoption by the United States army of that most sensible but also most informal article of dress, the sweater, shows a noteworthy change in military tailoring since the old "fuss and feathers" days. As the Springfield Republican points out military dress was formerly intended to impress the eye rather than to keep the soldier warm and comfortable. His clothes were stiff, tight and burdensome. The picture which troops would present on the parade ground was constantly kept in mind, rather than their comfort on the march or on the battlefield. Our military authorities have taken the lead in the introduction of a new order of things in considering the personal comfort and physical well-being of the soldier. His clothing is now adapted to the climate in which he serves and to the duties in which he is employed. He has lost something in picturesque quality, but his efficiency as a fighting unit has been increased.

Civil authorities have been more diffident about attempting reforms along the same line, but the example of the military will have its effect in course of time.—[Brookton Enterprise.

The Automobile Law.

What Maine Motor-Car Owners Must Do
to Avoid Legal Trouble.

Notwithstanding the publicity given the new automobile law, which goes into effect Dec. 31, there is much ignorance on the part of the motor-car owners, even what they are expected to do to avoid trouble with the officers.

The law was passed by the last Legislature and is known as Chapter 102 of the Laws of 1911.

Section 8 provides that:

All motor vehicles shall be registered
by the owner or person in control thereof in accordance with the provisions of this act. Application for such registration may be made by mail or otherwise to the secretary of state upon blanks prepared under his authority. The application shall, in addition to such other particulars as may be required by said secretary, contain a statement of the name, place of residence and address of the applicant, with a brief description of the motor vehicle, including the name of the maker, the number if any,
affixed by the maker, the character of the motive power and the amount of such power, stated in figures of horsepower, and with such application shall be deposited an annual registration fee of:

Five dollars for automobiles (used for
conveyance of persons, for hire, pleasure
or business) of twenty horse-power and under.

Ten dollars for automobiles (used for
conveyance of persons, for hire, pleasure
or business) between twenty horsepower and including thirty-five horsepower.

Fifteen dollars for automobiles (used
for conveyance of persons, for hire, pleasure or business) over thirty-five
horse-power.

Ten dollars for motor trucks or automobiles (used for commercial purposes), log haulers or traction engines, during the period between the first day of October and ending December 31st in any year
after nineteen hundred and eleven, one-half of the registration fee.

The secretary of state upon granting the application shall register in a book or upon suitable index cards to be kept for the purpose, the motor vehicle described in the application, giving to the owner of such motor vehicle a distinguishing number or other mark which shall thereupon issue to the applicant a certificate of registration, said certificate shall contain the name, place of residence and address of the applicant,
and the registered number or mark shall be prescribed in the manner in which said number or mark shall be inscribed or displayed on the motor vehicle and shall be in such form as the secretary may determine.

The secretary of state shall also furnish the applicant two enamel iron plates, containing the word "Maine" to be not less than one inch in height and the number of the registration in Arabic numerals not less than four inches in height. The number plates must be attached to the front and rear of automobiles, auto trucks and traction engines. Motor cycles will be provided with a registration seal or other distinguishing mark as may be determined by the secretary of state. The number of motor cycles must be so placed as to be always plainly visible.

A proper record of all applications for registration and of all certificates issued shall be open to inspection of any person during reasonable hours. The certificates of registration shall always be carried on the person or in some easily accessible place in or about the motor vehicle. Upon the sale of any motor vehicle, registration shall expire and the vendor shall immediately return the certificate of registration to the secretary of state, with notice of sale and the name, place and residence and address of the vendee. Registration plates, seal, or other distinguishing mark shall be abolished, motor cycles and traction engines shall be furnished free, from the office of the secretary of state.

A motor cycle that has been registered in accordance with this section, may be operated by the owner of such motor cycle without a license and the certificate of registration shall be evidence of the right to operate. To replace lost or mutilated plates, seventy-five cents each.
The express charge for delivery of registration plates to be paid for by the recipient.

Manufacturers, dealers and owners shall notify the secretary of state when they sell or transfer an automobile, giving the name and address of the new owner.

All registrations expire on Dec. 31st
of each year and all cars must be registered again before they can be operated without liability of prosecution under this act.

A person who disposes of his car and buys a new one can register the new car for $2, providing the horse power is the same as in the old car; if it is greater, he must pay $2 plus the difference. Any person 16 years old can get an operating license for $2. Any person getting a license must write his name on the margin of the license which shall be null
and void unless having such signature.

Non-residents without getting a license in this State can operate cars in this State not exceeding 30 days providing they are registered in some other state.

A violation of any of the above sections shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $15 or by imprisonment not exceeding 10 days.

Any unlicensed person can run a car
if accompanied by a licensed operator, preparatory to becoming familiar with the car and taking out a license.

Any person intoxicated or in any way operating a car recklessly or in excess of the speed limits shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $50 or by imprisonment for a term of three months or by both fine and imprisonment. A second conviction doubles the penalty. His license shall be revoked.

All moneys received under this act are devoted to the improvement of State highways under direction of the highway commissioner.

B. G. McIntire,

Chairman of State Board of Assessors.

Governor Plaiside has announced the appointment of Bertrand G. McIntire of East Waterford as chairman of the State Board of Assessors to succeed Hon.
Obadiah Gardner of Rockland, who has resigned to accept an appointment as United States senator.

Mr. McIntire is a prominent livestock and lumber dealer in Oxford county and it was only with great difficulty that Governor Plaiside was able to induce him to accept the nomination. His name was mentioned in connection with the appointment at the time that Mr. Gardner was named, but it was understood then that he would not accept under any conditions.

Mr. McIntire is 46 years old and married. He was born in Norway and educated in the common schools of that town and at Bridgton Academy. He has served upon town, county and State Democratic committees and has always been a Democrat. He has held the office of superintendent of schools of Waterford, represented the Waterford class in Gov House in 1903, and was sheriff of Oxford county from 1905 to 1907. He came within a few votes of re-election in 1910, the election being so close that it required a decision from the supreme court to settle it.

The human race is divided into two classes—those who go ahead and do something and those who sit still and indure. "Why wasn't it done the other way?"—Holmes.

Paper, being a nonconductor of heat, makes the best possible cover for kitchen or laundry pipes that are apt to freeze. Wind around tightly, fastening into place with a string.

DRAPING OLD BEDS.

Very Difficult to Treat These Pieces of Furniture Artistically.

Among the many vanished institutions within our generation is the old fashioned bed valance. How rarely one sees such a thing in these days of free and fresh air crazes, and the consequence is a vast development in bed spreads. But a funny accompaniment to this change is the reversion back to the old wooden bedstead, certainly a more picturesque but a less strictly hygienic structure than its iron framed relation. Now, said a woman recently, one of my friends, who possesses only the ordinary painted iron framed bed, has been pointing out to me how utterly gaunt and skeletonian they look without any underpinning, yet how the ordinary sized bedspread, frill and all, refused to come down properly at each side to hide the drafty vacancy underneath. It is an extra large one—she bought it "bundles" most horribly at the foot, where much iron and brass work impedes its grace. So we put our heads together, with the result that we bought several yards of one of the lovely art cottons now so cheap, white, with an eighteenth century design on it of parrots and stiff brocade foliage and flowers, and made a bedspread to fit—that is to say, with two deep side pieces reaching to within an inch of the floor, but shortened in proportion at the foot, so that the material lay neatly and flat behind the metal work scrolls and twirls. We put no frill on this, but a two inch border of easement cloth of deep green blue, the principal tint in the parrot design, laid on flat about two inches from the hem and stitched at each side with featherstitch in thick white embroidery cotton.

As for the gap now left at the foot end of the bedstead, we made a plain, unfurled curtain of the greeny blue easement cloth and attached it to the foot of the framework behind the metal design, to remain there as a permanent thing. We then made another curtain for the head end of the bed to match this, but worked in the white cotton in a solid design, forming a strip or cross panel along the whole width of the curtain about six inches from the top. This made a very complete looking thing of the gaunt bed; yet, the bedspread being lifted off for night use, the free passage of air under the bed was still procurable. The top curtain was hung over the ironwork on a small rod.

Even with the wooden bedsteads the ornamental cover should be made considerably wider than it is long or that "bundling" at the foot must occur. Yet usually one can buy these only of exactly opposite dimensions.

Attractive Leather Articles.

If you are looking for a birthday gift for a member of the masculine sex why not consider some of the new leather articles for desk and den that are decorated with English hunting scenes. The illustration shows a desk, cigar box and picture framed in dark green leather, all of which are most attractive and new.

High Sleeping Place For Baby.

There is a grandmother who recently paid her married daughter a visit. Asked on her return how she found things in New York, she said among other observations:

"There is one thing that worries me. It's all the fashion to have babies sleep out of doors. That may be all right, but some way I can't get used to putting the child out on an iron balcony that hangs off the front of an apartment house anywhere from three to thirteen stories from the ground. I think there's a dreadful risk in putting a child to sleep on a balcony seven stories from the ground. Our baby's a very smart child, just as his father and his grandfather were before him, and some day he's going to crawl out of his basket and climb over the edge of the balcony after the birds. You'll see!"

HOW TO CARE FOR BOOKS.

They Should Not Be Crowded into a Shelf or Left Too Loose.

Books are frequently ruined through carelessness. This is less in the handling often than upon the shelves.

A reader who would store to bend a book back when open will put it to worse strain on the shelves.

Books should not be packed tightly on a shelf. It ruins the backs and causes them to tear loose with the strain of getting in and out. Often it forces the leaves to sag to the shelf when pushed unduly.

It is just as bad for books to be too loose on the shelf, as they warp and the spreading leaves encourage dust.

A bookcase with the contents at every angle is not a pleasing sight.

There are some housekeepers who think a yearly dusting of books at housecleaning time sufficient. This is bad enough when they are kept under glass; when on open shelves it means ruin to valuable books. It takes little longer to dust the backs and tops of books on each shelf every day. Use a soft, cheesecloth or silk duster and shake it frequently.

Many valuable books are ruined at housecleaning time. This should be twice a year and is not a burden if systematically done a shelf at a time.

The old plan of heaping the contents of a library indiscriminately on the floor while shelves are washed has nothing to recommend it. See that shelves are dried after washing, as books are ruined by dampness.

In dusting the book itself clap the backs lightly together, then dust the outside. Never use a damp cloth on a book. If it has been wet absorb most of the moisture with a blotter and soft cloth, then dry under pressure to prevent warping.

Forbid young people to handle books until they know how to protect them. It is well to use covers to protect a book when held by grimy young hands. These can now be bought in different sizes to fit almost any book and can be used repeatedly.

HOW TO GROW GERANIUMS.

Soil Should Not Be Too Rich and Spot Should Be Sunny.

The geranium bed should be in a sunny place. Do not put it in the center of the lawn, because that dwarfs the place and spoils all artistic effect. If the bed is in too shady a place the plants grow long and slender and produce abundance of large leaves, but do not bloom.

The soil in the bed should not be too rich. A little old rotted manure worked into the soil is all they want. In overrich soil they grow too rank and do not bloom well. Geraniums, unlike many other plants, will do well year after year in the same bed.

Many people have trouble getting the plants out of pots. Turn the pot upside down, supporting the soil with the left hand, the stem of the plant between the fingers. Strike the top of the pot, turned down, sharply on a box or block of wood. The pot will then slip easily away from the soil, leaving the plant with its ball of earth in the left hand.

If the roots are densely matted pinch them to break them apart. No matter if you break the roots, it will do no harm. Plant them firmly a little deeper than they were in the pot. Give them a good soaking, then leave it alone, except to keep the top soil stirred and the weeds down.

When water is needed give the bed a thorough soaking and be sure to loosen the soil the next day.

How to Dry Blankets.

Blankets after being washed should be dried, if possible, on a sunny day in the open air, and if there is plenty of wind so much the better.

To prepare a wash for the blankets take two cakes of white or yellow soap, cut them into pieces and dissolve them in boiling water on the stove. When the soap is quite melted remove the saucepan from the stove and add to the water two tablespoonfuls of ammonia.

Take half of the prepared liquid and pour it into a tub of lukewarm water, put in the blankets, let them soak for a quarter of an hour and squeeze and press them gently the while. Then take the rest of the hot soap and water and put the blankets into this tub, squeezing them about again. Afterward take them from the tub and squeeze (do not wring) the water out, then put the blankets into a tub of clean water and rinse them well. Take them out and squeeze them as dry as possible, shake them and hang them very straight on a line, pulling and shaking them, periodically while they are drying. When they are thoroughly dry air them near a fire and they will be ready to be put away.

How to Clean a Coat Collar.

Often the collar of a coat begins to look shabby when the coat itself is still quite fresh, and it is wonderful what a difference a thorough cleaning will make.

First of all take a piece of clean rag, dip it in spirits of turpentine and rub the collar thoroughly with it. Leave it for ten minutes, and then rub it again with the turpentine and scrape it carefully to remove any loose dirt.

Next sponge it with a little alcohol or chloroform and keep wiping it until it is almost dry. Hang it up in an airy place for an hour or two, and you will be delighted with the result.

Your Mark.

An individual fashion of marking one's handkerchiefs and underwear is to write one's name or initials on each piece exactly as the signature is made.

The characters are then worked with mercerized cotton in stem or outline stitch. This is an excellent means of identification in times of need.

Forestalling Starvation.

James J. Hill puts his familiar doctrine bluntly when he declares that the American people will not take to raising the food they need until starvation drives them to it. But it is only the starvation in extreme, and that is justifiable by its logic. Practical, hunger is the primal motive power, and the great army of humanity, from the stouthe age up, has always, in Napoleon's phrase, "marched on its belly."

In our case the motive power will begin visibly to work long before starvation need be a terror to any able-bodied beings. It is being organized by Mr. Hill already and by a large and powerful class to which he belongs. The railway men want big production and low prices because they sell transportation and profit by increased demand for it.

All employees of labor on a large scale want moderate prices for their products, because they are condition precedent to moderate cost of living and to healthy and efficient labor. Thus it comes about that there is a practical movement, with money and brains behind it, to secure the tillage of more land and the better tillage of all land.

In countries like Germany, with a strong and centralized Government, or like Denmark, with a compact population of unusual intelligence, this movement is largely guided and aided officially, though in Denmark voluntary association is by far the more effective agency.

In our own country more is being done than is widely known by the agricultural departments of the federal and state governments, while associated voluntary effort is advancing.

Only recently the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. gave an object lesson in breaking up an assembly of farmers in breaking up a stubborn and subsoil by dynamite discharged by a flash in a multitude of holes properly distributed, and doing in a short time, at relatively small expense, the costly, difficult and slow work of subsoil plowing and the draining, and doing it, probably, far better.

When the pricking of appetite or the wise study of the relation of hunger and the food supply leads to the practical betterment of agriculture in this way, we need not be gloomy as to the future. [New York Times.]

Chickens and Ducks.

While the ordinary chick is growing and assuming a marketable age, the duckling is large and ready for the time the eggs are put into the incubator, the ducklings are ready to eat. Four weeks' time is consumed in the period of incubation, but in nine weeks after they are hatched they may be taken to market. Ducklings are fast growers for several reasons. They are so greedy that they never lack for their meals; they are not nervous and easily frightened, and they are, as a rule, hardy anyway. A duckling will hardly nearly the same age, and while they eat a great deal more while they are growing, they consume a large quantity of food that the chicks would not utilize and they also go around and seek a lot for themselves.

Weeds, greens of any kind, bugs, worms and all kinds of food will be eaten by them, which foods the chicks could not stand at all. Therefore those who have plenty of room do wisely by hatching and raising ducklings for market. They are not nearly the trouble that chicks are, and when one is crowded for time the ducklings will look out for themselves.

Plenty of Deer.

According to reports from the north and east sections of the state the deer hunting season, which began on Monday, should afford good sport. The same appears to be rather more plentiful than in seasons past and, unlike the fall of 1910, there has been plenty of rain so that early hunters will not be bothered with the noise of dry leaves.

All summer deer have been reported in droves along the Upper Penobscot and in the Moosehead country, and various other sections. The game wintered well, suffering neither from extreme cold nor deep snows. The deer season runs from Oct. 1 to Dec. 15.

Little is known of the moose, except that some guides and hunters report having seen a considerable number of young bulls with fairly good horns. The moose season begins Oct. 15 and runs to Dec. 1.

Ice Cream Cake.

Whites of five eggs, one-half cup fine granulated sugar, one-half cup butter, one cup sweet milk, one teaspoon cream of tartar, one-half teaspoon soda, three cups sifted flour. Color one-half of the mixture pink with strawberry coloring and flavor with vanilla. Flavor the white part with vanilla. Bake slowly in a brick loaf tin, putting the white dough in first and the pink dough on top. Forty minutes is about (the right time). Try with a straw and take out as soon as the white part is done. Turn on the pink color otherwise. Turn on a board and frost with a white icing. Color one-half of it pink. Spread the pink icing on the pink part and cover with a chocolate glaze made by melting one and one-half squares unsweetened chocolate. Do not stir, and when melted spread over frosting.

Rice and Cheese.

One teaspoonful of rice to four cups of hot water. Boil rapidly for 20 minutes. On bottom of buttered baking dish put layer of bread crumbs, then a thick layer of rice and another of cheese, another layer of rice, another of cheese. Finish with bread crumbs on top. Pour over all a cold mixture of one egg, one cup of milk, two tablespoons of melted butter, one tablespoonful salt, one-fourth teaspoonful dry mustard. Bake 20 minutes in a quick oven. This is delicious as a luncheon dish or as a substitute for potatoes with meat.

Mr. and Mrs. James T. Boutwell, former residents of Norway, are getting nicely settled in their new home which includes part of the farm formerly the homestead of Mrs. Boutwell's father and her childhood's home.

Mrs. Fred Meserve entertained the Stirling Literary club at its latest session. The readings by Mrs. Meserve, Miss Baird and others were much appreciated. The next meeting of the club is to be with Miss Hutchins.

Mrs. Mary Gordon Walker, known among her many friends familiarly as Aunt Mary Walker, is suffering acutely except when under opiates from a fall, Sept. 25th, causing a fractured hip or sprained hip. A trained nurse and members of her family and many friends are doing all in their power for her comfort.

George Charles, formerly a resident of Fryeburg Center and well known in this locality, but lately residing in Chatham, N. H., was fatally injured while in the woods. Stepping aside to avoid a falling tree, he tripped over some brush which struck him on the back, fracturing the spine and injuring his chest. He was removed to a hospital in Portland and an expert was called, who after careful examination declared his case hopeless.

Good Luck, but, Oh!

A man who was noted for his sporting blood, returned from a duck hunting trip recently but didn't make very much talk about the trip on his return. His reticence was not because he didn't get a duck, for he was too good a shot to be dumb. It is because he did get some ducks. With a friend he got up early one morning and went out to look for birds.

Spying a flock he crept noiselessly up to where he could get a better shot, using all the skill that is known to good duck hunters to avoid frightening the flock.

No one could be more skillful than he in this case for not a duck left the water. "Bang," went the gun. Two birds fell back. The flock scattered, unable to understand any such explosion. "He was reloading when a native appeared in view."

Them's my ducks, yet confoundedly idiotic. Angrily but a blamed city feller could tell a tame duck when he saw it. He paid 60 cents apiece for his birds and thought he got off lucky.

A Professional Mayor.

Lakeport, N. J., is about to change its method of government by birning a "professional" mayor, who will have charge of all its municipal affairs subject to the advice of a commission of five members. We heard the prophecy that this will be the general plan of city and even town governments at some time in the not very distant future.

When the demand is created for men qualified to perform all the functions of local government, men will no fit themselves, just the same as the supervisory school district system has caused men to qualify themselves for superintendents. With the continuance of the present trend of specialization, it seems to us that one man government plan is sure to be realized. A much more economical and businesslike administration is likely to result from this plan than from present methods.

This is no reflection upon the character or ability of thousands of excellent men who accept local office under the present system. The fault is with the system not with the men. In many cases personal popularity determines the man's election irrespective of fitness, but in more cases a man is elected to administrative office by reason of his general business ability.

The latter is of course the best possible qualification under the present system, but it does not go far enough. Man's earthly reign is not of sufficient duration to permit him to master everything and it is an absolute fact that the man who specializes today is the man who makes good.

The small towns that could not afford to pay the salary of an expert could be grouped something after the idea of the present school system, which has done all to elevate the efficiency of the public school system than all other legislation for many years combined.

When the people get thoroughly wise to the fact that it is not in the power of the town who can do one thing successfully is the winner, this plan of local government is likely to prevail.

Loss in Membership.

One of the principal subjects for discussion taken up at one of the sessions of the Ecumenical Methodist conference at Toronto, to which delegates from all quarters of the globe were in attendance, was the decrease in the membership of the church, which, it was revealed in the report submitted, had taken place the world over during the last decade.

The western section comprising the Methodist churches in the United States, Canada and Japan reported during that period a loss in membership increase while in the eastern section, covering the churches in Great Britain, Ireland, France, South Africa, Australia and the mission field, showed an absolute loss in membership.

In the western section the increase in members in the decade ending 1891 was 1,281,209, while in the last decade it was 437,562, the latter increase being but 15 per cent, as contrasted with the former of 33 per cent. This according to Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll of New York, secretary of that section, was due to a decrease in earnestness.

"Our pulpits are not less desirous of reaching the unconverted in foreign lands," he said, "but it seems to be lessened with anxiety for the unconverted in eastern lands. Our preaching is conforming somewhat to the spirit of the age, which carelessly says 'God will not condemn those who do the best they can.'"

Rev. Howard Sprague of the Methodist church of Canada urged widest extension of the church union work already advanced in Canada by the union negotiations with the Presbyterian and Congregational churches of the dominion.

Do You Get Up

With a Lame Back?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everyone knows of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because of its remarkable health restoring properties. Swamp-Root fulfills almost every wish in overcoming rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night.

Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble, it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been thoroughly tested in private practice, and has proved so successful that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble.

When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to:

STONEHAM.
Isaac F. McAllister.
At his home at Haskell's Corner, Auburn, Oct. 5, occurred the death of Isaac F. McAllister. He has not been well for some time but was about until three weeks ago when the exertion of getting to the city to vote "no" on the momentous question in Maine this fall proved too much for his strength. He was stricken shortly after and lay in a semi-conscious condition until his death.
